- Group Roles
A well-designed textbook, website or other print resource has a variety of elements or features that are applied consistently to help the reader locate and use the material. Some texts have more of these features, and clearer cues, than others do. Previewing a course text can help students to identify the text features and use them efficiently.

Purpose

- Learn how to navigate subject-specific textbooks and resources.
- Examine the layout and features of a particular text, and how to use it.

Payoff

Students will:

- become familiar with different course texts and resources (print and electronic).
- use strategies for effectively previewing and locating information in different texts, using the table of contents, indices and/or navigation bar.

Tips and Resources

- Most information texts use a variety of visual, graphic, and text features to organize information, highlight important ideas, illustrate key concepts, and provide additional information. Features may include headings, subheadings, table of contents, index, glossary, preface, and paragraphs, separated by spacing, bulleted lists, sidebars, footnotes, illustrations, pictures, diagrams, charts, graphs, captions, italicized words or passages, boldface words or sections, colour, and symbols.
- Consult any written articles such as those in Ontario Prospects.
- Also refer to any Career Studies text (e.g., Nelson, Career Studies 10).
- www.careercruising.com, www.apprenticesearch.com.

Further Support

- Provide students with a copy of a Career Studies text that has all of the visual and graphic features (e.g., diagrams, charts, illustrations, captions, maps, headings, titles, and legends) removed or blanked out. Ask students to scan the text and suggest what the blanked-out sections might be.
- Have students read the body of the text and summarize the information. Ask students to identify the parts of the text and summarize the information. Ask students to identify the parts of the text that they had difficulty reading, and suggest what additional features would help them to navigate and understand the text better.
- Alternatively, provide students with a copy of a course-related text showing the text features only, without the body of the text. Discuss what information they can gather from the features and what predictions they can make about the content. Note the connections among the features of a text and the words, and how they help readers understand the content.
- Encourage students to preview the features of a text before they read the content. Have partners share their previewing strategies.

8. In Unit 4, how many sections appear throughout the unit?

9. Where would you go in the textbook to quickly find information about WHMIS?

10. On what page does the index begin?
Getting Ready to Read: Anticipation Guide

CAREERS Grade 10

An Anticipation Guide is a series of questions or statements (usually 8 to 10) related to the topic or point of view of a particular text. Students work silently to read and then agree or disagree with each statement.

Purpose

- Help students to activate their prior knowledge and experience and think about the ideas they will be reading about.
- Encourage students to make a personal connection with a topic or unit of work so that they can integrate new knowledge with their background experience and prior knowledge.

Payoff

Students will:
- connect their personal knowledge and experience with a curriculum topic or issue.
- engage with topics, themes and issues at their current level of understanding.
- have a purpose for reading subject-area text.
- become familiar and comfortable with a topic before reading unfamiliar text.

Tips and Resources

- An anticipation guide works best when students are required to read something that contains unfamiliar information. The idea of the guide is to raise students’ awareness of related issues and help them make connections with what is familiar and unfamiliar about the text.
- In creating an anticipation guide, write open-ended statements that challenge students’ beliefs.
- Avoid using statements that are ‘right’ or ‘wrong’, or that require simply a ‘yes’ or ‘no’ response.
- For ideas to help craft the statements, see Student/Teacher Resource, Anticipation Guide – Sample Statements based on a student assignment in The Ontario Curriculum Exemplars, Grade 9, Guidance and Career Education, to create a newsletter for incoming Grade 8 students to help prepare them to be successful in Grade 9.
- For a blank anticipation guide for this activity, see Student Resource, Anticipation Guide Template.
- Do not be limited by published textbook material. Consider a newspaper article, magazine article, government/social organization’s webpage or a brochure/pamphlet as appropriate forms of text to present. In Learning Strategies, oftentimes these less traditional information resources are more current and relevant to the students’ lives.
- NB: Teachers will use assistive technologies as required.

Further Support

- Place students in pairs to complete the anticipation guide if they are having trouble making connections with the theme or topic, or if they need support with the language (for example, English Language Learners).
- To provide an opportunity for struggling students to contribute in a more supportive situation, divide the class into small groups of four or five and ask them to tally and chart their responses before participating in a whole-class discussion.
- Read statements aloud to support struggling readers.

Students are required to learn, on average, over 2,000 words each year in various subject areas. Those who have trouble learning new words will struggle with the increasingly complex texts that they encounter in middle and senior school years. A word wall is a wall, chalkboard or bulletin board listing key words that will appear often in a new unit of study, printed on card stock and taped or pinned to the wall/board. The word wall is usually organized alphabetically.

Purpose
- Identify unfamiliar vocabulary and create a visible reference in the classroom for words that will appear often in a topic or unit of study.

Payoff
Students will:
- practice skimming and scanning an assigned reading before dealing with the content in an intensive way. Students will then have some familiarity with the location of information and with various elements of the text.
- develop some sense of the meaning of key words before actually reading the words in context.
- improve comprehension and spelling because key words remain posted in the classroom.

Tips and Resources
- Skimming means to read quickly – horizontally – through the text to get a general understanding of the content and its usefulness.
- Scanning means to read quickly – vertically or diagonally – to find single words, facts, dates, names, or details.
- This strategy can be used to review concepts or to review Career Studies terms for an evaluation. Words for the word wall may be created by teachers but preferably students should be involved in the process. Consider posting certain words for longer periods (e.g., words that occur frequently in the unit or course, words that are difficult to spell, and words that students should learn to recognize on sight).
- Before building the word wall, consider using the strategy Analyzing the Features of Text in Think Literacy: Cross-Curricular Approaches, Grades 7-12, to help students become familiar with the text.

Skimming and Scanning a Text

Skimming

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>What is it?</th>
<th>When you SKIM, you read quickly to get the main idea of a paragraph, page, chapter, or article, and a few (but not all) of the details.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Why do I skim?</td>
<td>Skimming allows you to read quickly to get a general sense of a text so that you can decide whether it has useful information for you. You may also skim to get a key idea. After skimming a piece, you might decide that you want or need to read it in greater depth.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| How do I skim? | 1. Read the first few paragraphs, two or three middle paragraphs, and the final paragraph of a piece, trying to get a basic understanding of the information.
2. Some people prefer to skim by reading the first and last sentence of each paragraph, that is, the topic sentences and concluding sentences.
3. If there are pictures, diagram, or charts, a quick glance at them and their captions may help you to understand the main idea or point of view in the text such as “Essential Skills” or “Transferable Skills”.
4. Remember you do not have to read every word when you skim.
5. Generally, move your eyes horizontally (and quickly) when you skim. |

Scanning

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>What is it?</th>
<th>When you SCAN, you move your eyes quickly down a page or list to find one specific detail.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Why do I scan?</td>
<td>Scanning allows you to quickly locate a specific fact, date, name or word in a text without trying to read or understand the rest of the piece. You may need that fact or word later to respond to a question or to add a specific detail to something you are writing.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| How do I scan? | 1. Knowing your text well is important. Make a prediction about where in a chapter you may find the word, name, fact, term, or date.
2. Note how the information is arranged on a page. Will headings, diagrams, or boxed or highlighted terms guide you? Is information arranged alphabetically or numerically as it might be in a glossary?
3. Move your eyes vertically or diagonally down the page, letting them dart quickly from side to side and keeping in mind the exact type of information that you want. Look for other closely associated words that might steer you towards the detail for which you are looking.
4. Aim for 100% accuracy! |

Money Math – budgeting and daily use of your personal finances

Use of Computers – ability to use computers in one’s daily life for activities such as searching the web, checking email, and creating documents

Time Management – knowing the difference between urgent and important and being able to get things done in a given time period
A Movable Quiz

Set-up:

The teacher or students create a set of cards based on the vocabulary/content to master. To learn vocabulary the word would be on one side of the card and the definition would be on the other. To practice a concept or create a review each card could have the question on one side and the answer on the other. Each student receives one card.

Steps:

Students start walking around the classroom asking each other the question or vocabulary word on their card. The object of the activity is to ask each person in the room the question on the card and to help them give the correct answer. Prior to the activity students can be briefed on cueing, listening and encouraging. The students quiz each other and then move on to a new partner. Once the activity is finished the cards can be arranged on a bulletin board as a word wall or review board.

Management Tips:

• If students make cards check them for accuracy.
• If there are an odd number of students, the teacher can play to get the class started.
• If needed, assign who goes first each time.
• To make sure the students circulate around the room to different partners the students can collect signatures or initials.
• A location in the room can be designated for students to wait until they find a partner.

Differentiated Instruction:

• Monitor to assess and help.
• Colour code cards by levels of difficulty – students find someone with the same colour card to quiz.
• Use pictures instead of words.

Social Skills:

- asking questions
- greeting
- departing
- coaching
- praising
- asking for help
- tolerance
- departure

Ideas for use in a Careers setting:

- Energizers (about you, favourites)
- Vocabulary and definitions
- Post-secondary options
- Discovering jobs and career sectors
- Learning Styles

Others you can think of…….
Graffiti is a collaborative learning strategy that can be used before or after an assigned reading. Here you can see how it might be used before reading. The strategy involves students working in groups to generate and record ideas on chart paper. The teacher sets up as many chart pages as there are groups. On each chart page, the teacher writes a topic related to the assigned reading. The groups travel in rotation from chart to chart, writing responses to the topic and to the comments previously written by other groups.

Purpose
- Provide an opportunity for students to make a personal connection to a topic or unit of work by expressing their opinions, demonstrating their understanding of the assigned text, and making connections to their prior knowledge and experience.

Payoff
Students will:
- connect their personal knowledge and experience with a curriculum topic or issue.
- expand their understanding of the reading by seeing and hearing the ideas and opinions of others.
- think about post-secondary options, trades, apprenticeship, work and others options.

Tips and Resources
- Use a Numbered Heads strategy to randomly assign roles in small groups. For example, if you are working with groups of five, have the students in each group “number off” from 1 to 5. After the students have numbered off, assign a particular role (e.g., recording, reporting, displaying work) to each number. Rotate the roles as the students continue with the exercise.
- For sample role descriptions designed to promote small group discussion, see the Group Roles strategy in the Oral Communication section of the Think Literacy Cross Curricular Approaches Grades 7-12.
- The rotation and recording aspect of the strategy should take about 15 to 20 minutes. If groups have too much time at any chart page, there won’t be anything for subsequent groups to write.
- For step-by-step instructions on leading the class through the graffiti strategy, see the Teacher Resource, Graffiti Strategy – Procedure for Groups.
- See also Nelson, Career Studies 10, Unit 3 pages 107-136, pages 153-161, or another text book.

Further Support
- Pre-teach some vocabulary related to the topic or issue to support struggling or English Language Learners students. Consider putting key terms on a Word Wall.
- Assign two students to the role of reporter, to ensure that struggling or English Language Learners are supported if they are chosen as the reporter.

Post Secondary Options

Suggested topics for graffiti stations:

1. Why choose an apprenticeship program?
2. Apprenticeship is the last choice one would make for post-secondary options.
3. Colleges are better than universities.
4. University is better than college.
5. Working after high school rather than continuing with your education is a big mistake.
6. University is the best path to choose if you want to make a lot of money.
7. Traveling after high school is a ridiculous idea, one would be better off traveling when finished with all of his or her education.
8. Post-Secondary education means a lot of debt.
When students engage in rapid writing at the beginning of a writing assignment, they access their prior knowledge, engage with content, review and reflect, and begin to set direction for writing letters, essays, and other subject-based assignments.

Purpose
- Help students to start writing and ultimately to produce more writing.
- Encourage fluency in generating ideas for writing on any topic, in any subject area.
- Help students begin organizing ideas.

Payoff
Students will:
- rapidly generate fresh ideas about topics in any subject area.
- write down ideas without self-editing.
- generate raw material for more polished work.
- complete writing activities on time, overcome writer’s block, and improve test-taking skills.

Tips and Resources
- There are numerous opportunities for application of this strategy in Careers course planning. A computer lab for word processing is an effective place for students to do this work.
- This strategy may also be used:
  - as a pre-reading strategy similar to KWL;
  - to review classroom work;
  - in conjunction with brainstorming;
  - as an after topic assessment e.g., Multiple Intelligences;
  - to compare different types of resumes;
  - as a prewriting strategy before a final copy is submitted for evaluation.
- Use rapid writing regularly in the classroom, and have students select the day’s topic. Career courses lend themselves well to this approach.
- Rapid writing may be applied when writing tests, by “scribbling down” information students are afraid of forgetting just before they begin responding to questions.
- Prepare an overhead transparency of Student/Teacher Resource, Tips for Rapid Writing.
  - www.careercruising.com (resume templates).

Further Support
- Write the topic on the board, and do not repeat it orally if a student comes in late. Instead, point at the board. This also reinforces the topic for visual learners, and for students who have poor aural memory.
- Encourage students to use the rapid writing strategy to overcome anxiety for tests or assignments.
- Use timed writing for parts of a task e.g., write as many words as possible in three minutes, then as many more as possible in the next three minutes, etc.
- Vary the process; some students may need to work in point form.
- Save completed rapid writing to use later to teach writing conventions or organization of ideas.
- Vary the amount of time given to students.

Tips for Rapid Writing

• Write as fast as you can.

• No corrections or erasing allowed.

• Write until your teacher says STOP – do not stop before!

• Don't lift your pen/pencil from the paper or remove your hands from the computer.

• If you get stuck, jumpstart your brain by writing the topic title and extending it to a sentence.

• When your teacher says, “stop”, count and record the number of words you have written.

• Be prepared to discuss your topic; use the writing you have done to start you off.

Developing and Organizing Ideas: Webbing, Mapping and More

Purpose

- Identify relationships and make connections among ideas and information.
- Select ideas and information for possible topics and subtopics.

Payoff

Students will:

- model critical and creative thinking strategies.
- learn a variety of strategies that can be used throughout the writing process.
- reread notes, gathered information, and writing that are related to a specific writing task.
- organize ideas and information to focus the writing task.

Tips and Resources

- Strategies for webbing and mapping include:
  - Clustering – looking for similarities among ideas and/or information and grouping them according to characteristics.
  - Comparing – identifying similarities among ideas, information, or things.
  - Contrasting – identifying differences among ideas, information, or things.
  - Generalizing – describing the overall picture based on the ideas and information presented.
  - Outlining – organizing main ideas, information, and supporting details based on their relationship to each other.
  - Relating – showing how events, situations, ideas and information are connected.
  - Sorting – arranging or separating into types, kinds, sizes, etc.
  - Trend-spotting – identifying things that generally look or behave the same.

  - Nelson, Career Studies 10, pages 41-44.
  - http://snow.utoronto.ca/prof_dev/tht/multint/content/mi.html.

Further Support

- Provide students with sample graphic organizers that guide them in sorting and organizing their information and notes – e.g., cluster (webs), sequence (flow charts), compare (Venn diagram).
- Have students create a variety of graphic organizers that they have successfully used for different writing tasks. Create a class collection for students to refer to and use.
- Provide students with access to markers, highlighters, scissors, and glue for marking and manipulating their gathered ideas and information.
- Select a familiar topic (perhaps a topic for review). Have students form discussion groups. Ask students to recall what they already know about the topic, and questions that they still have about the topic. Taking turns, students record one idea or question on a stick-on note and place it in the middle of the table. Encourage students to build on the ideas of others. After students have contributed everything they can recall about the topic, groups sort and organize their stick-on notes into meaningful clusters on chart paper. Ask students to discuss the connections and relationships, and identify possible category labels. Provide groups with markers or highlighters to make links among the stick-on notes.
- Display the thinking of the group.

Template: Brainstorming Web

Student Resource
When students can get the “picture” of a form of writing in their heads, they feel more confident about creating the final product. A template or framework is a skeletal structure for a writing form that allows students to organize their thoughts and researched information in order to write a first draft. Essay maps are another type of template.

Purpose
- Provide students with a template to scaffold their understanding of a form of writing and help them organize information before drafting the piece.

Payoff
Students will:
- learn the common expectations for the form and components of a particular writing assignment.
- organize their writing and ensure that it meets the requirements of the assignment.

Tips and Resources
- The purpose of this report is for students to share information that they have gathered about a specific career.
- To help students understand how to construct a writing assignment, they may first need to deconstruct an example of that assignment. The same template that is used for structuring student writing can be used initially to analyze examples of a writing form. For instance, before having students use the template to write in a specific form, give them an example of the same kind of writing and have them use the template to identify the example’s main idea, supporting details, transitional sentences, etc. Using the template to deconstruct a piece of writing before writing their own version gives students an exemplar from which to work when they begin their own writing. This activity can also be done in pairs or in small groups.
- Think Literacy: Cross-curricular Approaches, Grades 7-12.
- Be Real Game.

- The teacher may wish to have students interview someone working in their chosen career or field.
- See the explanations and templates for writing an informational report:
  - What is a report? How do you write a report?
  - Writing a Report Template
  - Information Report Template - Blank

Further Support
- The template for any individual writing assignment can be revised to make the modifications or accommodations necessary for students with special needs. For example, reduce the number of paragraphs or supporting details, create differing expectations for research, or for the complexity of the main idea.

What is a report?

A report is a form of writing that provides information. There are different types of reports, and they can be organized in different ways depending on the purpose and audience. However, a report is usually based on researched facts or on accurate details of a situation or event, not just on the writer’s own knowledge. For your careers class you may be asked to write a report on a career path or employment skill. You might also write a report detailing the organization, costs, participation, and success of a certain event such as a concert or banquet. In business situations, or in science or medical journals, reports are organized with a summary (or abstract) at the beginning. The purpose of this summary is to give the person reading the report a sense of the main content. The rest of the report fills in the background information, the process by which the information was obtained, and makes recommendations.

How do you write a report?

1. Research your information, finding it in several different sources (e.g., books, magazines, the internet, interviews).
2. Take notes of the key details that you need from your sources. Be sure to record which information comes from which source so that you can give credit to your sources.
3. Use an organizer such as a chart, web, or sub-topic boxes to sort and classify your information into different areas for sub-topics.
4. When writing your introduction, think of who your audience might be. If your report is to be made orally to your classmates, you will want to catch their interest somehow, perhaps by referring to some personal experiences. If your report is to your teacher or for an “expert” on your topic, you should be more formal and to the point, avoiding the use of “I” and being more objective.
5. Develop each sub-topic paragraph with an appropriate sentence that shows how the sub-topic links to the topic.
6. Make sure that your sub-topic paragraphs have a logical order and that they flow smoothly. Use sub-headings to guide your reader through a lengthy report with many sub-topics.
7. Write a conclusion that summarizes two or three of the main points you wish to make about your topic. Depending on the type of report, write several recommendations.
8. Give credit to your sources by acknowledging them. List the sources alphabetically by the author’s surname, following the style your school recommends.
Student/Teacher Resource

Writing A Report

Introduction: Introduce the topic and classify it or put it in a category – e.g. “Web design is an exciting and challenging career opportunity.”

In two or three sentences, give the reader a “map” of what you plan to do with the topic. Essentially you are naming your sub-topics – (e.g., “A career in web design requires knowledge of computer software programs and a good business sense. This career provides a great deal of flexibility and is very rewarding and challenging. This career did not exist 20 years ago but today it is an area that continues to grow. There are many possibilities for an individual interested in web design”).

First sub-topic: Define your topic and give some general information about it – e.g., say what a web designer does or perhaps describe a web designer’s typical day. You may also choose to provide this information in your introduction.

Make several key points with information from your research.

Write a transitional sentence or question – (e.g., “The use of technology and the introduction of the internet has lead to the creation of many new jobs, including that of web design”).

Second sub-topic – (e.g., “The effect of computer technology on careers” or “Pros of a web design career”).

Make key points from your research.
Write a transitional sentence.

Third sub-topic – (e.g., “Education required or suggested routes to become web designer”).

Make key points from your research.
Write a transitional sentence.

Conclusion: Re-state some of your key points – (e.g., opportunities for a career in web design or the pros and cons of a career in web design).

Write an emphatic concluding sentence – (e.g., “It is likely that the area of web design will continue to evolve as computer technology continues to change and improve”).

In this strategy, students individually consider an issue or problem and then discuss their ideas with a partner.

Purpose
- Encourage students to think about a question, issue, or reading, and then refine their understanding through discussion with a partner.

Payoff
Students will:
- reflect on subject content.
- deepen understanding of an issue or topic through clarification and rehearsal with a partner.
- develop skills for a small group discussion, such as listening actively, disagreeing respectfully, and rephrasing ideas for clarity.

Tips and Resources
- Use Think/Pair/Share for almost any topic.
- Use it to help students with their in-class reading. Ask them to read a chapter, think about the ideas, and then take turns retelling the information to a partner.
- Use it at any point during a lesson, for very brief intervals or in a longer time frame.
- Increase the amount of time devoted to Think/Pair/Share, depending on the complexity of the reading or question being considered. This strategy can be used for relatively simple questions and for ones that require more sophisticated thinking skills, such as hypothesizing or evaluating.
- Take time to ensure that all students understand the stages of the process and what is expected of them.
- Review the skills that students need to participate effectively in Think/Pair/Share, such as good listening, turn-taking, respectful consideration of different points of view, asking for clarification, and rephrasing ideas.
- After students share in pairs, consider switching partners and continuing the exchange of ideas.
- See other strategies, found in Think Literacy: Cross-Curricular Approaches, including Take Five and Discussion Web for ways to build on the Think/Pair/Share strategy.
- For background information see:
  - www.career cruising.com
  - Personal interviews

Further Support
- Some students may benefit from a discussion with the teacher to articulate their ideas before moving on to share with a partner.
- Student may have their written reports with them to help facilitate the discussion.

Students are divided into groups of a certain size — for example, five members. Each student is assigned a specific role and responsibility to carry out during the small group discussion.

Purpose
- Encourage active participation by all group members.
- Foster awareness of various tasks necessary in small-group discussion.
- Make students comfortable in a variety of roles in a discussion group.

Payoff
Students will:
- all speak in small groups.
- have specific roles to fulfill, clearly defining their role in the small group.
- receive positive feedback that is built into the process.
- participate actively in their learning.

Tips and Resources
- It is a good idea to have organized groups and use group roles whenever you do group activities. This will help to ensure maximum participation and on-task behaviour.
- It is important to vary the composition of small groups, allowing students the opportunity to work with many classmates of various abilities, interests, backgrounds, home languages, and other characteristics.
- It is a good idea to repeat this activity throughout the year. This will allow students the opportunity to experience different roles and to improve their skills.
- Time the exercise to keep the students focused on the task.
- If research is required, involve all students in the process, regardless of their role. This activity provides an excellent way for students to share research and come to a consensus about important information.
- For more information see: Student/Teacher Resource, Sample Role Cards — Template.
- Student Resource, Reflection Sheet — Template.

Further Support
- Although it is important to vary the composition of groups, it is also important to consider the particular needs of struggling students.

| LEADER | Does everyone understand what we are doing?
                        Have you thought about this in another way?
                        We are getting off topic: let’s get back to the task. |
| MANAGER | Here are the materials we will need. This is what I think we should look at.
                        We have ___________ minutes left.
                        Now that we are finished, let me gather the materials. |
| NOTE MAKER | Would you repeat that so I can write it all down?
                        What do you mean by that?
                        Let me read to you what I have written so far. |
| REPORTER | Let's review the note maker's notes.
                        Does anyone have anything to add before I report to the class?
                        Does anyone have any suggestions on how to report to the class? |
| SUPPORTER | Really good point.
                        We haven't heard from ________________________ yet.
                        Please don't interrupt; you’ll get a turn. |
