Congratulations! Your school is among a growing number in Ontario where members of your staff will be implementing TLLP projects. The TLLP is an excellent opportunity for experienced teachers to enhance their professionalism and skills, extend their learning and share their expertise with others.

As the school principal your encouragement and support are highly valuable to educators implementing a TLLP project. The progress and success of all students in Ontario is contingent on effective leadership throughout the system which supports teaching and learning in Ontario schools. The Ontario Leadership Framework recognizes the principal as “pivotal to the development of excellent teaching, excellent schools and ultimately, enhanced student achievement and well-being.”

The TLLP is a teacher-led and self-directed program with three goals:

- support teacher professional learning
- foster teacher leadership
- facilitate the sharing of exemplary practices with others for the broader benefit of Ontario’s students

A TLLP project is excellent professional development.

Principals Supporting Teacher Leadership

Here are a few examples of how principals are able to support teachers in their work as TLLP participant(s):

- Meet with the TLLP team to build a shared understanding of the project’s intended purpose, timelines, activities and to better understand the participant(s)’ goals
- Link the TLLP team with other supports (e.g. at the board level or within the community)
- Support the TLLP teams in meeting project requirements and sharing information about important timelines (e.g. relating to board and business processes)

Helping Teachers Work through Policies/Procedures/Protocols

When transforming ideas into actions, it is important that TLLP participants are aware of the board policies, procedures and protocols that may impact the way they can carry out their projects. Depending on the scope of the TLLP project, these may include:

- Securing release time, including for teachers from other schools in the board, to participate in learning and sharing activities
- Claiming expenses tied to their projects (e.g. board travel and accommodation allowances)
- Policies on sharing and posting student work, pictures and names
- Purchasing procedures (e.g. for office supplies, resources and technology outlined in the TLLP project proposal)

Additional Effective Practices

Here are some additional ideas that will help you, the TLLP participants and all of the staff in your school get the most out of the TLLP:

- Recognize the work being done by the TLLP participants – TLLP participants put a great deal of time and energy into carrying out their project. Many have told us how encouraging it is to receive a note or a comment from their principal congratulating them on this work or seeing their work showcased in a school activity, newsletter, blog or school/board website.

- Promote the TLLP – the selection of a TLLP project is a success for you and your school. Consider sharing news of the TLLP project with your Superintendent, School Council or Trustees at a board meeting.

- Make connections to other work – consider linking TLLP projects with similar or complementary activities going on in the school and board, providing TLLP participants with further opportunities to share new knowledge. TLLP projects result in a great deal of learning and the expertise that is developed can go on to support further school activities (e.g. mentoring, SIP, PLCs, etc.).

- Annual Learning Plan (ALP) – an effective ALP can be implemented as part of a learning focused and collaborative school culture, often used as a “living document” connected to the learning of students and the authentic professional learning goals of each teacher. Principals can recognize this professional approach to authentic learning by encouraging the TLLP participants to make their project a part of their ALP.

  - Consider linking the support you provide to the project to your Principal Performance Appraisal (PPA).
