The page contains text in Inuktitut, followed by English text. The English text seems to be a mix of instructional content and contact information, possibly related to a website or resource for parents or educators. The page includes web addresses and contact numbers for support. The content appears to be part of an educational resource provided by Ontario, indicated by the Ontario government logo and web address at the bottom of the page.